What is Kinetic Golf?

Kinetic Golf is a revolutionary new way to play the game of golf. It uses motion capture technology to track your every move, and then translates that data into a realistic and immersive golf experience. This means that you can swing your club, putt, and chip just like you would in real life, and the game will respond accordingly.

Kinetic Golf is the perfect way to improve your golf game. It allows you to practice your swing in a controlled environment, and it provides you with feedback on your technique. You can also use Kinetic Golf to play against friends or family, or to compete in online tournaments.

How does Kinetic Golf work?

Kinetic Golf uses a combination of motion capture technology and computer vision to track your every move. The motion capture system consists of a series of sensors that are placed around the playing area. These sensors track the position and orientation of your body, and they send that data to a computer. The computer then uses this data to create a digital model of your body, and it renders this model in real time.

The computer vision system is used to track the position of the ball. The system uses a series of cameras to track the ball's movement, and it sends this data to the computer. The computer then uses this data to update the position of the ball in the digital model of the playing area.

The combination of motion capture technology and computer vision allows Kinetic Golf to create a realistic and immersive golf experience. You can swing your club, putt, and chip just like you would in real life, and the game will respond accordingly.
